HE'S A BAD MELICAN MAN AND THE CHINESE GOVERNMENT WILL NOT ACCEPT HIM.

SO MR. BLAIR WILL NOT GO ABROAD.

The United States Government Informed that the Chinese are Unwilling to Accept the New Minister.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The Chinese government has notified the government of the United States, through the department of state, of its unwillingness to receive Henry W.
Blair as our minister to China.

BLAINE WILL NOT TALK.

This is all the information that could be obtained here tonight. Secretary Blaine would not talk upon the subject, and the Chinese minister sent word to callers that he had retired and his interpreter was not in the house.

Mr. Blair is not in Washington, but his son was found, and he expressed surprise when informed of the action of the Chinese government. It was, he said, the first that any of the family had heard of it. His father, he felt sure, was not aware of the situation.

It is well understood here that the objection to Blair is based upon his utterances concerning the Chinese question, and that the expulsion of extracts from his speeches produced a deaf impression upon the minds of prominent Chinese officials. This finally resulted in the notification received by the department of state this evening. The objection of the Chinese government to Blair caused no exception here, as this government recognizes the right of a foreign power to express its unwilling-ness to receive a minister who is not entirely acceptable.

THE BREAK FROM CALL

Does Not Announce to Very Much as Yet,
and the Election May Go by Default.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 28.—[Special.]—In the house today the contested election case from Suwanee, came up, Shine and Mann, minority members of the election committee,
stated that the printed pamphlet purporting to be the evidence in the election case, did not contain the minority report, and about seventy-five pages of appendix matter were missing.

Speaker Gaskins explained that he had just returned from the public printer's, who informed him that the balance of the matter referred to could not be ready before Thursday morning. Mr. Doughtery moved, therefore, that its further consideration be postponed until Thursday next.

Mr. Clark, of Polk, leader of the Call forces, and others on his side taunted the Speer men
with a purpose to unnecessarily delay action,
as submitted, and that they then consider the case, which lead to an acrimonious debate, in which the lie was several times passed.

The motion to postpone finally prevailed,
and quiet reigned.

This distinct subject has widened the gap between the two forces, and all hope of a amicable settlement has vanished.

The outlook is that the election of senator will go by default.

Judge Speer returned home today to look after his "truck." He says "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush." His friends will keep him in the field.

The caucus met at 8 o'clock, and on the first ballot the anticipated break from Call occurred. Applause greeted each Cali man who voted for Blank or for some other candidate.

Blank, however, was not satisfied, and voted again to vote to H. W. Long, made an eloquent speech, congratulating the caucus that had not brought down their democratic principles for any man. To meet the wishes of his people, as he now understood them, and recognizing the rights of the minority, he changed his vote from Call to Long. Thunderous and long-

Result of ballot: Cali, 49; Speer, 39; Blank,
3; Bloxham, 2; Long, 2; Vann, 1.

The result of the second ballot was the same.

Of the third ballot—Cal, 49; Speer, 37;
Long, 4; Bloxham, 3; Blank, 3; Vann, 1.

There was a wrangle over two or three proxies, which finally resulted in temporarily getting back two votes to Call, and the last ballot resulted: Cal, 51; Speer, 37; Long, 3; Blank, 3; Blank, 3.

The caucus then adjourned.

CHARLESTON IS STIRRED UP

Over the Latest Chances in the Municipal Situation.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 28.—[Special.]—The publication of an interview with Chairman Irby, of the state democratic executive committee, in which Mr. Irby gives official recognition of the executive committee of the municipal democratic party, acted like a bombshell in the ranks of the reformers.

Chairman Irby's official statement has done away with the political system here. Democrats of both wings of the party are utterly at sea, and no man can tell what the harvest will be. The situation is perplexing. The municipal democratic executive committee, composed of men from the right wing, has called a convention of the democracy of Charleston to meet on the 30th instant. Under this call the democratic books of registration were opened today for revision. The registration was much larger than usual.

The party has called a convention to meet on May 4th, and has advised their adherents not to take part in the convention of April 30th. Both sides claim to have a majority of the registered vote of the city.

THE LONG EXPECTED LETTER

Of the Pope on the Social Question Will Soon Be Published.

ROME, April 28.—A representative of the

New York Associated Press has had an interview with a prominent dignitary of the Roman Catholic Church regarding the forthcoming enclosed letter of Pope Leo XIII on the social question. This gentleman holds high wings and a rank, and gave the pope much assistance in drawing up the long expected document. He says the pope has finished the letter, but he has decided to wait until the 1st of May is past before giving it to the public.

He describes it as the principal work of the whole pontificate, a synopsis, a resume of the pope. He has worked at it for many years, sometimes for long periods without interruption.
It is impartial, conciliatory and conservative, and one of its principal ends is to furnish the Catholics of all countries with a common ground of action. The supreme inspiration of the document is to put catholicism, doctrinally and intellectually, at the head of the social movement.

THE DETROIT STRIKERS.

Police and State Troops Kept Busy in Maintaining Order.

DETROIT, Mich., April 28.—Several hundred strikers congregated in the vicinity of the Michigan car shops this morning. The police immediately began clearing the streets of them.
The strikers were armed with sticks and stones,
but did not offer any very great resistance.
The police fired some twenty shots to emphasize their presence. In some instances the strikers had strung flags fluttering in the wind. The yacht clubs of San Francisco,
Sausalito, Tiburon, and neighboring towns,
had also decked their boats and houses,
and stones were thrown at the strikers.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—The morning of President Harrison's marine excursion opened with a fog enveloping the shores of the bay, but as the forenoon wore the fog lifted and left the harbor sparkling in the sunlight. Along the water front numerous decorations, which had been placed on houses and shipping on the day of the president's arrival, were retouched and augmented, and many vessels not previously decorated had strings of flags fluttering in the wind. The yacht clubs of San Francisco,
Sausalito, Tiburon, and neighboring towns,
had also decked their boats and houses,
and stones were thrown at the strikers.

Remarkable Scenes in the Courtroom—The People Raise Big Subscriptions for Her and Cheer Her Name.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 28.—[Special.]— Mrs. Julia Martin was acquitted of the charge of murdering her brother-in-law today at 5 o'clock, and when the verdict was read to the court, such a demonstration was never before witnessed as that which immediately followed.
Cheer after cheer filled the courtroom, and hats, canes, umbrellas and law books were tossed in the air by the jubilant crowd like so many skyrockets, and the persistent efforts of a large corps of deputes failed to restore order.

HOW SHE RECEIVED THE VERDICT.

The defendant stood erect, and faced the jury when the verdict was read, her face pale and her eyes flashing like two coals of fire, but when the words "not guilty" broke on her ear, she sank down in her chair, only to be quickly picked up by the crowd who showed the wildest of delight.

The Christian ladies who have stood by her ever since her trouble, were also cheered by the crowd, and offered every manifestation of admiration and respect possible to offer.

OUT ON THE STREETS.

After the crowd had gotten under control, Mrs. Martin was led from the courtroom to the jail, as she expressed a wish to return and arrange her belongings and bid goodbye to the keepers. While in jail, she was visited by the attorney general, and the band which had been given to her by the attorney general was presented to her.

THE LANDING OF THE MONTEREY.

In addition to those on the vessels there were probably 40,000 people who witnessed the launching of the coast defense vessel, Mon-tere, from the shore. Every house-top and street corner, from main street to wharf, was literally covered with people. Never was there such interest taken or such enthusiasm displayed at any similar event in this country.

At 10:30 o'clock the Pueblo steamed out into the bay from Broadway wharf along the northwest line of City Point to Fort Point, thence west to the Whistling Duck boat line miles to a point between the two points named. The construction of this line will give the Mobile and Ohio a connection with the Plant railroad and the St. Louis and San Francisco railroads.

THE CENTRAL CITY.

THE SAD SUICIDE OF MR. JOE LANE.

He Swallows Twenty-Five Grains of Morphine, and Comes to His Death Thereby.
The News of the Central City.

MACON, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—Augusta may rightfully claim to be the banner divorce city, but Macon can lay successful claim to being the champion suicide city. There have been four suicides here in ninety days and three attempts.

The latest suicide occurred this afternoon. The unfortunate was Joe Lane, a well-known white man about thirty years old. No one supposed he would ever kill himself. He was seen riding a horse about the city this morning.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock Lane rode to Tracy lake, a popular fishing ground three miles from the city, and, going to a well, got a drink of water and swallowed twenty-five grains of morphine, which he had bought at Hunt & Shelverson's. The morphine was in a box, and after swallowing the drug he threw the lid of the box in the well.

Lane then walked a short distance to a tree, laid down and told an old white man who was present what he had done, and that he desired to die. He said he had been out of work some time and that his wife had told him this morning that he was doing nothing to support her and their children, and that it was his opinion that the best thing he could do was to die.

Before dying he pointed to his horse, that was eating near by, and said that was his animal.

Lane then folded his hands, and was soon dead. He was attired in a nice suit of black clothes, a standing collar, gold buttons, a straw hat and gold watch and chain. At times Lane would drink hard, though he tried faithfully to break off the habit.

It is said that the beat his horse severely today when going to Tracy, which lends color to the belief that he was drunk when he took the fatal medicine, though some think he was sober and took the poison while mentally depressed as being out of work. Formerly he was a foreman of the East Tennessee railway. Some time ago he was hurt on a railroad, and received $800 damages. His late work has been cleaning tombstones at the cemetery. He married an estimable lady who deeply mourns the untimely death of her husband. Undertaker Clay took charge of the remains.

IN TRIBUNALS OF JUSTICE.
What Is Being Done in Superior and City Courts at Macon.

MACON, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—Judge Miller is presiding in Bibb superior court at Macon this week. Today the following business was transacted: Shear & Bros. vs. R. H. Walker, Robinson vs. Marcelline, divorce, first verdict; H. C. Tindall vs. R. K. Wooldridge, judgment for plaintiff; Wallace Masterson vs. Macon City and Suburban Street railroad, non-suited; Josephine McCord vs. Mary A. McCordle, non-suited.

Court of criminal appeals: The case of William G. Johnson vs. the city of Macon to prevent mayor and council widening Washington avenue eight feet, because, if so widened eight feet, Johnson's lot on Washington avenue will be cut off. Defendant claims that plaintiff encroaches upon the street at a point. Plaintiff denied this and the last was decided by the court of Macon to the late B. F. Ross, who in turn decided it to A. O. Bacon, and it is now owned by the plaintiff, Johnson. The case excites considerable interest, as there are a number of property holders involved.

Today a charter was granted to the Macon Herald Company, which is composed of H. C. Tindall, John C. Van Syckel, L. E. Culver, Ross and Howard White; capital stock, $100,000.

In the city court, Judge John P. Ross presiding, Newt Jones et al., charged with assault and battery, were acquitted. Ross Smith, charged with carrying concealed weapons, acquit. Phil Waters, charged with adultery, plead guilty and was fined $25 or three months in the chain gang.

The grand jury is in session today.

NOT DOING MUCH BLOWING,
But the Macon Evening News Is Getting
There Just the Same.

MACON, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—The following appeared today in Macon's popular and prosperous Evening News:

"We are not making very loud noise, but it has a very regular stride. The very latest improved WB perfecting newspaper press now on the market, manufactured by the Goss Printing Press Company, will be in operation in the News pressroom on or before June 1st. It comes high, but it must be had."

LET THE LETTER SPEAK.

The following letter was for itself:

CHICAGO, Ill., April 23, 1891.—C. Baldwin, Macon, Ga. Dear Sir: In reply to your favor, would say that the newspaper perfecting press you sent us to us is a good one, and we have in about ten days, or as soon thereafter as the special features suggested by you can be added. This will make you the finest $100 press turned out to us, we trust. We have a new river, being different in many respects from those we have heretofore made, besides the features asked for you, and is the very latest improved newspaper printing press in the United States from our works.

The bright Evening News has attracted no little notice, and we doubt not that the improved features you will have the adding of which constitutes the most important forward step in the history of any newspaper, will place your paper in the front rank of the great ranks of southern metropolitan journals. Wishing you great success in your new enterprise, I beg to remain yours very truly, J. J. WALTERS. President Goss Printing Press Co., Chicago, Ill.

A GOOD TAX COLLECTOR.
He Voluntarily Retires from Office and Leaves a Fine Record.

MACON, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—The one-armed veteran, C. B. Massenburg, has been tax collector of Bibb county for ten years, and at the recent election seemed to be a candidate for the office, though he would not be re-elected without opposition. He has made a model officer, and has made his collections very close and prompt.

Todays the county commissioners held a special meeting to examine his books for a final settlement, and will have the auditing of his improved features by the auditor of state, and the amount of uncollected taxes to his successor in office property tax to the amount of only $1,062.75 of uncollected taxes. This includes all insolvent taxes, and odds and ends of every sort. Had he remained in office one month longer, he would not have turned over $2,000 of uncollected tax to his successor, Captain D. B. Jones. The latter is a working structure, but is of modern style, and will be quite handsome when completed.

One Negro Kills Another.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—John Webb, a negro working on the Georgia Canal and Northern road here in Atlanta, was killed by another negro yesterday, about three miles from the city. He had been sent to Captain Wright's camp with a message, and just as he got off his mule, he was shot by a negro man. A rifle was the weapon, and death was instantaneous. His murderer escaped.

As an evidence of his efficiency it may be stated that in ten years of service and collecting last year, he paid off all the county taxes to be turned over to his successor in office property tax to the amount of only $1,062.75 of uncollected taxes. This includes all insolvent taxes, and odds and ends of every sort. Had he remained in office one month longer, he would not have turned over $2,000 of uncollected tax to his successor, Captain D. B. Jones. The latter is a working structure, but is of modern style, and will be quite handsome when completed.

An Old Player.

MARSHALL, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—Mr. E. B. Banks, an old pioneer of Warren county, but now a resident of the Spence district, was born September 5, 1813. He is as spry as a young man of twenty, and recently led to the altar a charming young bride.

THE Wheat Crop in Carroll.
The wheat crop of this county is reported to be better, than for several years past. Oats are looking weak. Farmers are up with their work, notwithstanding the bad winter. Some farmers are chopping cotton this week. Corn is looking well.

A Cotton-Seed Mill Coming.

MACON, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—Today at 10 o'clock, at the Mulberry street Methodist church, Rev. Dr. McFerrin officiating, Mr. L. E. Pellow, son of H. E. Pellow, and Miss Fannie L. Hendrix, daughter of T. C. Hendrix, were united in marriage. The bridal couple left at 11 o'clock a.m. for Savannah to spend Merchants' week. The bridal presents were many and beautiful.

The Big Suit Settled.

MACON, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—The big $2,000 suit, for damages, the Barnum & Bailey circus against the Covington and Macon road, has positively been compromised and settled at $17,500. Hoke and Burton Smith, of Atlanta, represented plaintiffs, and Hill & Harris represented defendants.

WORK MAY BE RESUMED

On the Macon and Atlantic and Macon and Birmingham.

MACON, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—Receiver W. Sparks, of the Macon Construction Company and the railroads connected therewith has returned from New York, where he has been engaged on official business. Receiver Sparks seemed in better spirits than when last in Macon.

It is reported in Macon very generally today that the contractors will resume work on the Macon and Atlantic and Macon and Birmingham roads at a near day, and that these lines will be pushed through to rapid completion.

One week ago today well-dressed, gentlemanly-looking young fellow, accompanied by a rather flashy-looking blonde lady, got off the Air-Line train and walked over to the Kimball.

The gentleman wrote on the register: Jas. L. Dunn and wife.

Since putting up at the Kimball the couple have conducted themselves very decorously, nobody suspecting that they were other than what they claimed to be.

A day or two ago Chief Connolly received a letter from Memphis, asking him to investigate Mr. Dunn. The letter was put in the hands of Detective Crim and Cason, under the orders of Chief Detective Couch, and their investigations resulted in the arrest of Dunn at the Kimball last night, as stated.

But aside from the charge of forgery against Dunn his arrest disclosed other somewhat sensational features.

Mrs. Dunn, as registered, was not Mrs. Dunn at all, but Miss Helen Maurie, a New York variety actress and skirt dancer.

This is what the detectives learned easily upon separating the two, and questioning them.

At the station house Dunn was searched, and among a small amount of money and other things, a will bequeathing all his property to Miss Maurie was found. The will, which was dated April 20th, specified property to the amount of about $20,000.

In justice to the proprietors of the Kimball it should be stated here that, until it is read in THE CONSTITUTION this morning they will not know that Mrs. Dunn is not Mrs. Dunn. Miss Maurie is a pretty skirt dancer.

This fact was kept quiet, because the girl stated that she was going back to New York this morning.

The details of Dunn's alleged crookedness, as gathered from himself and papers in the hands of the officers, are these:

Under date of April 23 three sight drafts were drawn on three different firms in Memphis. One of these drafts was on Hill, Fontaine & Co., for $3,200, the other on Toof, McGowan & Co., for $3,000, and the third drawn on Brooks & Co. for $3,500.

All these bills were drawn in favor of C. Guy Corbett & Co., and drawn by J. Stewart Crockett, endorsed to the Southern Express Company for collection by C. Guy Corbett & Co., J. W. Watson, attorney.

Attached to the draft on Toof, McGowan & Co. was a bill of lading for 110 bales of cotton consigned to him from S. Stewart Corbett & Co., and the draft was returned protested.

The draft on Brooks, Heely & Co., was attached to a bill of lading consigned to them, 118 bales of cotton, shipped from West Point and consigned by Crockett.

A way bill for 110 bales of cotton shipped from West Point was also attached to the draft on Hill, Fontaine & Co.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—A tract of 11,600 acres of land lying between the Savannah river and May River has been bought by Colonel J. H. Estill. The property was sold by the state, which acquired it through default of the tax payers on taxes. The tract lies between the two channels of the Savannah river.

Colonel Estill has another tract of land quite as large nearly adjoining his last purchase. He has great faith in Savannah's speedy growth, and says that there is no better place to buy land than in this part of the south. Savannah is growing rapidly, and the city is in full swing.

Accompanying each draft and way bill was a letter from J. Stewart Crockett, referring to the drafts and hoping that they would be honored. The enclosed letters were also mentioned, and Crockett concluded the three letters by stating that he would be in Memphis in a few days.

These letters were written upon paper bearing the printed letter head of J. Stewart Crockett, cotton dealer, Atlanta, Ga., representative of C. Guy Corbett & Co., of Liverpool.

The draft on Brooks, Heely & Co., was attached to a bill of lading consigned to them, 118 bales of cotton, shipped from West Point and consigned by Crockett.

But the cotton, claimed to have been consigned did not materialize, and Dunn is to account for the payment of the way bills so as to get money on the drafts.

Accompanying each draft and way bill was a letter from J. Stewart Crockett, referring to the drafts and hoping that they would be honored. The enclosed letters were also mentioned, and Crockett concluded the three letters by stating that he would be in Memphis in a few days.

These letters were written upon paper bearing the printed letter head of J. Stewart Crockett, cotton dealer, Atlanta, Ga., representative of C. Guy Corbett & Co., of Liverpool.

Investigation by the detective fail to determine exactly which J. Stewart Crockett, and Dunn is supposed to be sailing under that name in this particular transaction.

Dunn's story is that several months ago he sold a lot of Texas land to two Englishmen in New York, by the names of Watson and Crockett.

They were to pay him $400 for the property and make an additional payment of $3,000. Recently he went to New York again from Austin, his home, to conclude the deal. There he met Watson, who told him that his headquarters had been removed to Atlanta, and that if he would stop there on his way back to Texas he would be welcome.

Dunn claims that he is a good man, and agreed to stay at the Kimball house last evening. Watson gave him the drafts on Memphis with the waybills as payment, and he, believing them to be good, of course, forwarded them for collection.

Dunn claims that if the drafts and bills are not paid he will sue for damages.

He says Watson left Atlanta for Savannah last week, and he does not know where either he or Crockett is, notwithstanding the fact that they still owe him something like $2,000.

A FATAL SPOT

THE MEN WERE SLAIN AND DIED MYSTERIOUSLY.

Dark and Bloody Ground Near the Old Hardshell Church in Haralson County—Six Murders.

LEXINGTON, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—There is a spot in Haralson county over which the shadow of an evil angel seems to rest, and it is blackened by the curse of Cain. On this spot, which does not cover more than one acre, six tragedies have been committed—human lives have been blotted out forever.

THE FIRST TRAGEDY.

Not far from Buchanan, in 1863, on this bloody spot, there resided a man whose name was McDaniel. He had a beautiful wife, and as a village belle, had captivated many men. In the neighborhood there lived a man whose name was Hughes, and he was not immune to the charms of this woman. Being completely fascinated, he made known his love to her, and McDaniel became aware of the fact that his pretty wife had an ardent admirer in Hughes. He was jealous, as any man would have been, and he accordingly shot at his敌手, meeting Hughes on the highway, and accused him of trying to rob him of his wife; a quarrel ensued and McDaniel fired it with a double-barreled gun, killing Hughes instantly.

THE DEATH OF M'DANIEL.

The dead man lay where he had fallen until noon, when he was discovered, and was recovered by a farmer. The news of the killing was noised around; a bailiff of Buncombe district, arrested McDaniel, and he was taken to Flint church, where the Hardshell brethren used to hold forth. Justice Jones Williams presided, and McDaniel was empaneled. McDaniel was brought in, and after the meager evidence that was introduced, the jury retired and soon brought in a verdict of murder, and the judge sentenced him to be

HUNG ON THE SPOT.

The crowd seemed eager for the hanging, but the sheriff held it up, and it was deferred until a rope could be procured, and the after house in the settlement was visited, but no one was willing to furnish a rope for that purpose. Finally, however, an old farmer consented to lend them his plow line, and it was quickly fastened around the neck of McDaniel, and he was hung up.

AWFUL INTO BERTHITY.

The struggles of the victim were fearful to behold, but the crowd looked on unfinchingly, and a half hour, when he was pronounced dead by a physician.

A movement was made to cut the body down, but to this the old negroes who had witnessed it objected, because he did not wish to have a plow line cut. The body was allowed to hang a little longer, and then the noose was loosened and the plow line was returned to its intact.

When McDaniel saw that he was doomed to die, he sent for the Rev. Mr. J. Walton, and the minister wrote his will, which can now be seen on the court records of Haralson county.

McDaniel's wife was present at the hanging and left the scene leaning upon the arm of Andrew McCorkle. In one week's time she had married again.

SHE MARRIED HIM.

They have been living together ever since. McCorkle is a good farmer of Haralson county, and a sober, upright man.

No later than 1875 the attention of the grand jury was called to this unlawful hanging, and the matter was investigated. But the difficulty in procuring witnesses made the efforts of the grand jury abortive, and the matter was subsumed up.

SIX MORE MURDERS.

On almost the identical spot where McDaniel was hung, six other murders were committed, and various persons met death in a mysterious way.

Hiram Hall, while going home on a wagon of oats, was shot from ambush. Near the spot John Thompson was shot to death while sitting in his house; Joe Moore, in a fight, killed his brother-in-law, whose name was Roberts, and a man named Wash Golden was killed in a fight with his wife.

THE DEATH OF LIGE LAMBERT.

A little later on Horatio Chrisom, Jim Lowe, Harris Gillmor and Coon Nunn, ambushed Lige Lambert, killing him instantly. Horatio Chrisom and Jim Lowe were arrested, tried and convicted, and sentenced to the penitentiary for life. They escaped by jumping through a car window in the way to the penitentiary. Horatio Chrisom made a dash for liberty on the road from Buchanan to Carrollton and also escaped. Harris Gillmor and Coon Nunn were gallantly shot and were never heard of afterwards.

ANOTHER BLOODY CHAPTER.

Near this dark and bloody ground, a few weeks ago, Adam Golden was hounded down and beat to death by Bill Reeves and Joe Stanford. Old man Jesse Wade was instantly killed by a falling tree, and still another, Cleo Ayles, was killed at a dance, or social gathering, by the accidental explosion of an army gun. A man named Leech disappeared mysteriously in the same community.

Ed Franklin, who also took a hand in the killing of Hiram Hall, was never arrested, but was never brought to justice.

The Hall boys and others, implicated in the shooting of Jim Thompson, ran away to Texas and have never been brought to justice.

Joe Moore, who killed Roberts, left the country and has never been apprehended. Wash Golden was arrested for killing old man Pierce and a verdict of self-defense was rendered.

THE OLD HARDHELL CHURCH.

It is remarkable that the above mentioned tragedies all occurred within a radius of a mile and a half, near the old Piney Woods Hardshell church, which exists about sixty years now. Elder Robert Speight dedicated this church, and has been pastor sixty years. The cemetery at Piney Woods is the largest in Haralson or adjoining counties, and the graves of the six murdered men and all who were killed accidentally can be found there.

Goes to LaGrange.

KINGSTON, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—Rev. G. S. Tumlin, the esteemed pastor of the Baptist church at this place, preached his farewell sermon and resigned the pastorate yesterday. His successor will be Rev. Dr. James C. Young, of Atlanta. The congregation greeted him. Mr. Tumlin goes from here to LaGrange to fill the Baptist pulpit at that place, vacated by Dr. McKay, of Canada.

The church met in conference after the services, and resolved to give a new pulpit, a organ, and a parsonage for a few thousand dollars, balance 1 and 2 years.

In 100 yards of Harperville, a few miles from Clark, 100 yards from the town, there is a school, balance 1 and 2 years.

An Aged Couple.

BOWERSVILLE, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—Uncle Reuben Williford and Aunt Polly, are in this place visiting their son, Uncle John, who is eighty-four and one-half years old. Uncle John is seventy-nine. Aunt Polly and Aunt Nancy Holbrook, and Aunt Sally Berryman are the only ones now living of the old Bowers family, sisters to Job Bowers and many others, who have passed over to the other side.

Deaths in Georgia.

HOMER, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—Joseph Telford, one of the most prominent young men of Banks county, died at his residence a Friday morning last, and was buried in the Presbyterian church at the same place yesterday. He was a member of the Gazette Publishing Company, an elder in the Presbyterian church, and one of our most enterprising citizens.

Manganese in Rome.

ROCKVILLE, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—Capitalists in Rome to establish a manganese furnace. It will be the first of its kind in the south.

Negroes Borrowing Money.

WATKINSBORO, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—The Building and Loan Association yesterday had their first meeting in this town, a negro. He wanted $200 to buy a house, and the association will loan $200. He got it. He is a member of the N. W. Masons.

THE CHASE GIVEN

TO A COUPLE OF SUSPICIOUS LOOKING NEGROES.

They Are Supposed to Be the Men Who Murdered Webb, in Athens, on Sunday Night—Shots Exchanged.

LEXINGTON, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—Yesterday evening about 6 o'clock two large negro men were seen hurriedly walking through town, in the residence part of Church street, evading, as it were, the public square. They were just turning the corner of the street, taking the Elberton road out of town, when Mr. Adolph Poulnott, Jim Tom Smith, Will Bray and others rushed into town in buggies, looking for them. The gentlemen were well armed, and soon explained matters to Sheriff Maxwell, and Wynn and others who were on the street.

CATCHING UP WITH THE FUGITIVES.

The negroes were well armed, one having a self-action pistol, the other a Winchester rifle and pistol. Soon the sheriff and posse were in hot pursuit, about 300 yards behind them. Just in the edge of town, in front of J. J. Bacon's home, they came in shooting distance of the negroes, who, being closely pressed, left the road, and just after they had mounted a fence, passing into the edge of the pines, the posse opened on them. The shots could be distinctly seen by others in town and the excitement was intense.

THE CHALLENGE ACCEPTED.

The negroes turned and answered the volley. Sheriff Maxwell and Deputy Wynn fired in quick succession, also W. J. Knox—Mr. Maxwell with his Winchester, and Wynn and Knox with self-loading pistols.

The negro with the Winchester then turned, and taking deliberate aim let go three volleys into the charging posse, who were now crowding in on them. But the deadly missiles passed by, and just over their heads. An other fire from the posse brought Bill Reed, the largest of the negroes, down, the ball entering the rear of the thigh, passing through his thigh, and coming out just in front of the thigh, next to the body. Bill fired a last shot and gave up.

ONE FUGITIVE ESCAPES.

Bill Johnson, the other, made good his escape, although Sheriff Maxwell and a posse, after jailing Bill, have gone in pursuit. Johnson has his Winchester with him, and will doubtless use it again if crowded. They are supposed to be from Elberton.

They passed Mr. Will Bray's house this evening and demanded something to eat, while he was in the field. On being refused, they drew their pistols and threatened to kill. They pursued Mr. Poulnott's, and made like demonstrations. They were a negro and demanded money or his life. These parties were all attacked unawares, and had no means of defense. The negroes then fled, and passing through town met with the above results. Bill's wound is not bad, and he will soon be well, but a long berth in the chain gang awaits him.

SUSPECTED OF MURDER.

W. J. Knox says the negro with the Winchester is also shot. A negro who saw him pass said that he was bloody. These negroes killed a negro in Athens Sunday night named John Webb, and Sheriff Maxwell and Wynn leave this morning to find Johnson.

In conversation with Reed, who is now in jail, he says that he lived in or near Richmond, Va., and that Johnson is from Indiana. They are desperate characters, and were making for South Carolina.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS IN FORSYTH.

FORSYTH, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—Forsyth goes for public schools. The vote stood 136 to 26. The citizens are rejoiced beyond measure. They feel that Forsyth has at last placed itself in the line of progressive and increasing prosperity. They look for an influx of solid citizens that will before long double the population of the town.

BITTEN BY A SNAKE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—A day or two since Colonel W. F. Jones, of the 1st Cavalry, was bitten by a snake. It was in some grass in which he stepped. Fortunately it was not a very poisonous snake. The right ankle swelled up and was for a time painful, but it did not last. Colonel Jones killed the snake, which was not a small one.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED.

MILNER, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—The Milner Chair Manufacturing Company met in the storeroom of J. L. Crowley, and elected J. W. Hunt chairman, and Dr. A. M. Speer, secretary. The full stock of $2,000 was subscribed. The company will have machinery running by fall.

THE SHOOTER HAS SKIPPED.

CARROLLTON, Ga., April 28.—[Special.]—“Creed” Morris and Lewis Ward, two farmers living in Carrollton, the county seat, were Saturday night, and Morris shot Ward in the hip, which made a painful wound. Morris is skinned.

Next Friday.

In every civilized country, not excepting our own, the authorities regard the approach of the 1st of May with some apprehension.

The labor agitation in Europe has reached a point where it is dangerous to law and order to permit monster demonstrations of workingmen in large cities, and it is probable that troops will be held in readiness Friday to act at a moment's notice. In Belgium the workingmen will demand universal suffrage. In other countries they will demand higher wages or a reduction in the hours of labor. Here in the United States labor day will be generally observed in the north and west, and in many localities it will be the beginning of a strike for a working day of eight hours, but no sinister political significance is attached to the movement.

Fortunately we have in our standing army of American homes the best safeguard that the country could have. Of our millions of toilers a large percentage own their homes, and a majority of the others look forward to the time when they will be similarly blessed. Such men make good citizens. They want a stable government, and sound laws justly administered. They abhor lawlessness, and have nothing to gain by revolution. When men of this class strike or attempt to better their condition they do not threaten violence, and it is not their desire to injure their employers. They may be mistaken at times in their methods, but they mean well, and their demands should always be thoughtfully considered.

There is another element, however, of a very different character. It is composed in Europe of nihilists, anarchists, communists and revolutionists, who would overthrow existing governments, and enjoy a career of slaughter and plunder under the red flag. Some of these misguided men have made their way to our shores, where they are hanging on the outskirts of labor, and endeavoring to make converts to their European gospel of anarchy. These outlaws have made their influence felt in some of our cities, but they are comparatively few in number, and have nothing in common with the average American workingman.

Let labor day come and be duly observed. We need no soldiers to guard our cities on such an occasion. Our home owners and home seekers will guard the peace of the republic. If they demand the redress of grievances they will be heard, and public opinion will aid them in obtaining justice. Perhaps a few hangars-on and outlaws will attempt disorder and violence. They will be promptly suppressed, not only by the authorities, but by the law-abiding toilers of the land.

Let Europe order out her bayonets on May Day. With us banners and brass bands will take their place.

Foreign Immigration.

Ex-Senator Bayard, who was Mr. Blaine's predecessor at the head of the state department, contributes to The Forum for May a very interesting article on the issues that have sprung out of the extrajudicial execution of the Mafia assassins at New Orleans. These issues may be regarded as settled. The whole matter was a tempest in a teapot, and the importance that has been given to it was due to the fact that the republican administration thought it necessary to feel around in the dark and move with diplomatic delay. If Mr. Blaine's last communication had been handed to the Italians at first, the episode would have dropped out of sight at once.

Mr. Bayard's article, however, is a very statesman-like document, and, although it covers the same ground as Mr. Blaine's communication, it was probably written before the republican administration had made up its mind as to the nature of the reply it was called on to make. Not being bound by official considerations, the democratic statesman has gone into the matter more thoroughly than Mr. Blaine found it necessary to go.

"If the principles of law," Mr. Bayard says, "and the arrangements for their exercise declared by our courts, to be consonant with the provisions of the Constitution, and with the preservation of individual liberty, can not be reasonably possessed and enjoyed by our citizens, and be acknowledged and recognized as the basis of our government, because of the presence within our borders of alien subjects and citizens of foreign powers whose personal wrongs may not be remedied to their satisfaction, or to that of their government, without the impairment and disorder of our system, then the time has arrived when the unscrupulous foreign rights of the United States to determine by positive law what shall be permitted to enter our gates, and who shall be excluded."

The hint that Mr. Bayard here gives might reasonably be expanded. A great many people of this country, and among them a large number of foreigners, are of the opinion that the time has already arrived when the government ought to take some note of the indiscriminate immigration which is swarming to these shores. Not a day passes that does not bring to this country foreigners who ought to be sent back home on the vessels that bring them. The theory on which our institutions are based is that this republic is an asylum for the poor and oppressed of other nations, and it is a theory that may easily be stretched beyond the limits of prudence. Foreigners who come here for the purpose of becoming citizens of the republic, and who readily assimilate with the people here, imbibing a love of liberty from the air they breathe, and understanding and cherishing our institutions, are welcome now and will always be welcome. But we want no assassins and no anarchists; we want no foreigners who are not willing to join with our people in building up the republic.

Religion and Political Economy.

It is useless to attempt to confine Sam Jones to any special field of thought and action. He is all the time putting down the bars and venturing into new pastures.

The other day at Aberdeen, Miss., according to a report in The Memphis Commercial, Mr. Jones in the course of his sermon referred to the alliance and the sub-treasury. He told the farmers that they were not likely to accomplish anything on their present line, for every time the democrats and republicans acted the rascal they were sure to act the fool. He endorsed Senator George's argument against the sub-treasury, and said that no true American wanted government aid. Economy and honest labor would be found the best remedies.

He expressed sympathy for the farmers as they were the "under dog in the fight," and he said that he wanted to see them turn the big dog over, and get on top, but he had no confidence in their methods.

He deplored the fact that Christian character was not generally as good collateral security in business as it is in the case of the Hardshill Baptists, who can always obtain credit with sensible merchants. Homestead and bankrupt laws came in for his condemnation, and he longed for the day when a man's coat would be taken from his back to pay his debts.

Doubtless the reporter did the preacher some injustice in a brief and hurried synopsis of his remarks. But some people will wonder if it is in the line of Sam Jones's duty to mix lectures on political economy with his sermons. If he proposes to deliver stump speeches in the pulpit against the alliance and the subtreasury he will soon find out that he is making a great mistake. But it may be that the evangelist has been misrepresented. It is to be hoped that such is the case.

Whiskers Jones Once More.

Little Whiskers Jones, of The St. Louis Republic, in seeking opportunities to slander democrats who are better men in every way than he ever aspired to be, is making a spectacle of himself. We observe in some of our exchanges that he made an address the other day before an affair in New York that calls itself the Nineteenth Century Club, and he took advantage of the occasion to slander his betters.

We have seen it somewhere stated that Mr. Brander Matthews is president of the Nineteenth Century Club. He is a southerner and a man of the world, and it would be interesting to know how it is that he permits such a man as Jones, who makes it his business to cut a contemptible figure everywhere, to use the Nineteenth Century Club as the background for his political performances. Little Whiskers imagines that he is a democratic leader. In order to demonstrate this, he makes it his business to single out certain prominent democrats and democratic journals and declare that they are not democrats. His slander of Crisp fell flat—in fact, everything that Jones says or does falls flat; but he continues to make a spectacle of himself.

We do not know the date at which he sneaked in at the back door of the Nineteenth Century Club, but he had no sooner got in than he waved his whiskers and proceeded to declare that THE CONSTITUTION, The Birmingham Age-Herald, The New Orleans Times-Democrat, The Index-Appeal of Virginia, and other newspapers formed a faction which is not democratic in its beliefs on national issues. What Jones says is not important in any way, but it certainly presents a spectacle of assurance for a man who, according to all accounts, was horsewhipped by a newspaper reporter in Florida, to be going about the country declaring that leading democratic newspapers are not democratic, but are merely playing a part and deceiving their readers.

Jones is a ready slanderer, but it is significant that when his contemptible methods are characterized as they deserve, he withdraws into his whiskers and bewails the existence of "personal journalism," as if anything could be more personal than the lies he is retailing.

He Goes to Charlotte.

Mr. B. M. Blackburn, our special correspondent for the south, left last night for Charlotte, N. C., on a mission of great importance.

The work that he will do for the next twenty days is important to Charlotte, important to the entire south, a work which THE CONSTITUTION hails with pleasure—for it indicates that the people of this city of distinctive worth have determined to step in the race of progress, there to stay.

During the next twenty days, there will be four staff correspondents of the representative southern press, stationed in Charlotte for the purpose of giving the world daily reports of the development now going on in that busy city. Mr. Blackburn will represent THE CONSTITUTION, while The Augusta Chronicle, Charleston News and Courier and Wilmington Messenger will each have a special representative.

The whole forms a big scheme to advertise the growth of a big city, the formation of which is due to the skill and enthusiasm of Mr. Blackburn, who recently appeared before the Charlotte board of trade on the idea above indicated. It is especially notable since The New York World and Manufacturers' Record each had failed to gain the ear of this people.

Charlotte is the Atlanta of North Carolina, and this late move shows that she has much of the spirit that has built up her splendid Georgia sister.

The decision of Charlotte in this matter is an endorsement of THE CONSTITUTION, which is the acknowledged leader of the southern press, and an endorsement of Mr. Blackburn, whom THE CONSTITUTION takes pleasure in presenting to this noble people as a writer whose work has been endorsed by the strongest business spirits of the south.

Keep a watchful eye on the reports from Charlotte.

ACCORDING to the republican theory, cheap sugar ought to be very nasty.

A REPUBLICAN organ says: "It is a remarkable fact that the south thrives without the aid of the baseball craze." It is also a fact, but not by any means a remarkable one, that the south thrives without the aid of the republican party.

The story that Mullington's mind is giving way is one of his own inventions.

It is hinted that Rudini is still pouting. Has the banana crop failed?

WILLIAM HENRY HURLBURST will leave London. Some noble lord will take his place.

ITALIAN POWDER seems to be quick-tempered.

IN MINNESOTA the people seem to be preparing for the rainy season. A number of web-footed children have been born in that state recently.

If MR. HARRISON had carried a part of his salary with him he could have bought all the republicans in the California legislature. No business man ought to neglect such an opportunity.

IN ARRESTING all the thugs in the metropolitan絮, Interpolated Byres ought certainly to get hold of Jack the Ripper.

JONES, or The St. Louis Republic, has been pursuing McCullagh, of The Globe-Democrat, with all sorts of personalities. When McCullagh spoke back, Jones got under cover, and wrote an editorial decimating personal journalism. Jones's intellect is in his side-whiskers.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

THE NEW YORK METROPOLIS thinks that it takes a good deal of patience to be Anna Dickinson's sister. Perhaps Colonel Whiskers Jones, of The St. Louis Republic, would completely fill the bill.

THE GRIP and Bob Ingerson have met at last—a case of nip and tuck—it tucked Bob under cover.

Miss ANNA DICKINSON's recent lecture does not show that she is insane, but it shows that she is a very angry woman. She charged worse things upon Cleveland than upon Atlanta. She tried to make her and Vanaman in a similar way, and when somebody asked her: "What are you hissing, the truth or Vanaman?"

NORTHERN TOURISTS complain that Form Sumter and Morrisville are neglected. They suggest that these pretences should be beautified and kept in perfect order. Sometimes in the future they may have to be manned again.

AFER A LONG conference the German Lutherans of Hartford have decided that their pastor Dr. B. M. Lathrop has the right to drink beer and they have also raised his salary from $35 to $50 per month. They doubtless think that a beer-drinking pastor needs more money than one of the total abstinence pattern.

PEOPLE LAUGH at McAllister's 400 in New York society, but it is a matter of history that once when the government of Athens was overwhelmed the nobles, who were supposed to number 5,000, were found, upon investigation, to be reduced to 400. McAllister's count may be about right.

PRESIDENT HARRISON, in his Galveston speech of 2,000 words, used the pronoun "I" thirty-eight times. "My" was used eight times, "me" four times, "us" six times, "my" twenty-nine times and "we" twenty-seven times.

THREE AMES are today, according to the New York Sun, over 1,000,000 men in the United States who are out of employment. And Buffalo Truth reluctantly asks: "Will you kindly think of it for a moment? Realize what it means! Out of work, don't know where the next meal for themselves and their families is coming from. Why is this? The world is not completed yet! Equally strong there must be work for willing hands to do!" Is it not a pity that the world is not completed yet?

The feeling on this subject is very strong. Mr. Thigpen, of the Savannah High school, has lent himself to the task of moving things for education in Georgia, and has brought down Judge Andrew S. Draper, superintendent of public instruction in New York state, to help stir up a forward movement here.

JUDGE DRAPER PRESENT.

Judge Draper, who is a leader in the National Educational Association, comes here full of the normal school idea. It is the strong point of his own administration, and his address of Thursday will be sure to stir up the normal school sentiment. That sentiment is already so strong both here and among the people that a little impetus from a man fresh from its successful administration will start a new educational movement in Georgia. For a year or two the sentiment has been growing, and now the cumulative effects of the long discussion begin to appear. Hard as it has been to get a school fund, it seems harder to supply the demand for trained teachers. The eleven normal schools of New York state turn out about 500 a year and 5,000 are needed. There are 32,000 teachers whose average term of service is five or six years. To meet the deficiency New York has training classes to supplement the normal schools. In Georgia we are without the normal schools or the training classes, although in the nature of things, where 7,000 teachers are employed, about 1,000 go out of service and leave that many places to be supplied every year. These places are largely supplied by incompetents.

Judge Draper remarked this afternoon:

"There is as much difference between a raw recruit and a trained teacher acquainted with modern methods as there is between a tramp doctor and a graduate of one of the best medical colleges."

The effort to supply this demand, or to set in motion machinery that will supply it, is the distinguishing feature of this meeting of the school.

THE UNIVERSITY SIDE.

The university side of the normal school question is well represented. Chancellor Boggs, Dr. H. C. White and Professor Bocock, of the chair of ancient languages, are all on the ground prepared to push the interests of the university. What the outcome will be cannot be predicted. There may be a conflict between the normal school idea, pure and simple, and the idea of a school of pedagogues as proposed for the university. Dr. Bocock proposes that a system of fellowship, such as they have at Johns Hopkins and Yale, be established at the University of Georgia. The idea is to give a graduate desiring to teach a fellowship carrying an economical living with the duty of teaching adjunct classes in the university. The chancellor thinks this will combine scholarship with normal training.

I understand that School Commissioner Bradwell is coming down loaded on the subject of a uniform series of textbooks. That idea does not take with the teachers' association, and is not popular in the National Educational Association. The body of the teachers not only oppose the idea of stereotyping all the school children of a state on one pattern, but say also that it is absolutely necessary to have the textbooks to suit the needs of localities. If this matter is sprung on the teachers it will provoke a warm discussion.

A PERMANENT MEETING PLACE.

The board of directors took important action this afternoon on the question of a permanent home. The association has had several propositions looking to the establishment of a permanent meeting place. Last year the St. Simon's Land and Improvement Company offered them a site on St. Simon's island, between the lighthouses and Long Island. In addition to the site $300 in cash was offered. It is intimated that the Cumberland island people propose to offer inducements of a like character. In order to avail itself of these liberal offers, the association has secured a charter, which was approved by the directors this afternoon. The association is incorporated with $25,000 capital stock, in $10 shares.

The idea is to accept one of the propositions before the board, and build a home for the association as a permanent meeting place.

Excursions have been tendered the association to St. Simon's island on Thursday, and Cumberland on Friday. The two islands are competing.

All ready the attendance is larger here than at Cumberland, and the number will reach nearly 400. To further increase the attendance of the meetings of the association, President Thigpen has written Commissioner Bradwell, asking him to recommend that the legislature establish a day school, when public schools may have a vacation with continued pay, provided they attend the sessions of the teachers' association. This will be recreation and instruction together.

Commissioner Bradwell will address the association tomorrow, and Dr. Curry tomorrow night. On Thursday morning Judge

MR. DORSETT'S FRIENDS

HAVE A WORD TO SAY ABOUT HIS ABSENCE.

One of Them Writes a Card Denying Charges Which Have Never Been Made—Another Doesn't Know Where He Is.

Dorsett is growing impatient over the prolonged absence of Sam Dorsett.

The mystery of his absence, however, is no greater than the uncertainty of his whereabouts.

No one seems to know where he is. But the courts have taken a hand in the case.

And will proceed at once to wind up Dorsett's business for him unless he shows up and takes the job upon himself.

The proceedings were instituted yesterday.

Since Dorsett left his home his friends have been sincere and fervent in their allegiance to him.

Everybody has been sure that he would come back and explain everything satisfactorily.

But within the past few days many have begun to waver.

And now lots of Dorsett's best friends are in doubt.

Even the confidence of his wife has been shaken.

And his business partner has given up.

An evidence of Mrs. Dorsett's doubt is a paper she filed in court yesterday asking the judge to set apart an income out of the estate for her support, at least, until her husband turns up.

Dorsett's business partner indicates his doubt by making an assignment and asking the court to wind up the business of Dorsett &amp; Smith, general store.

The papers were drawn yesterday by Hon. W. F. Roberts, and will be laid before Judge Richard H. Clark today.

Dorsett's property, outside of his interest in the store, is valued at $15,000 to $20,000, and unless he returns to claim it his wife and children will come into possession of it.

The store in which he is interested with Mr. Smith, carries a stock valued at about $7,000.

The firm has been doing a good business and its credit has been first-class. Mr. Dorsett, however, has been considered the moneyed man of the firm, while Mr. Smith has been looked upon as the manager.

What money was needed Mr. Dorsett always got it.

The firm had some liabilities at the time Mr. Dorsett left, but none of these debts were pressing. Mr. Smith has been satisfied all the time that his partner would return, and went along with the work. Mr. Dorsett's absence gave him financial trouble, as none of the creditors were clamorous.

A day or two ago, however, an Atlanta firm holding a good-sized bill against Dorsett &amp; Smith, sent a man out to adjust the claim. Mr. Smith was not ready to meet it but Mr. Watson came to his rescue and the representative of the Atlanta firm came away satisfied, though without money.

Then Mr. Smith began to realize the embarrassing position in which his partner's absence had placed him. Realizing that other claims would soon fall due, he consulted with Colonel Roberts.

That consultation resulted in the assignment.

The stock and other assets will amount to $7,000 or $8,000, and will pay all the debts if properly handled. Mr. Smith and his friends thought the assignment was the best thing he could do for himself and his creditors.

If Mr. Dorsett were to return at once the matter could be adjusted.

Concurrent with the assignment Mrs. Dorsett's request to the courts was drawn. It relates the disappearance of her husband and all the facts connected with the case, and asks for a sufficient sum out of the estate to support her until the matter is finally adjusted.

The talk about Mr. Dorsett and Mrs. Massy is growing bolder every day.

People discussing it now recall the time when she was postmistress in Douglasville, and when the postoffice was located in Mr. Dorsett's store. Then they tell of Mr. Dorsett's hard work to secure the appointment of Mrs. Massy again recently.

Despite these rumors Mr. Dorsett's friends and Mrs. Massy's both deny them, and say that they will both come back.

Some of Mrs. Massy's friends are certain, however, that she is dead.

Saturday last it was currently reported in Douglasville that a letter had been received from him, and upon that report a telegram was sent to THE CONSTITUTION.

But the reality of that letter has never been satisfactorily established.

In fact, the gentleman who gave the information upon which the telegram was sent, now says that if a letter was received he did not know it.

Akinsman of Mr. Dorsett's went to Douglasville Saturday and remained till Monday. Monday morning, when he left Douglasville, that kinsman had a long conference with a well-known citizen of that town.

"Where is Sam?" the Douglasville citizen asked, meaning, of course, Sam Dorsett.

"I haven't the most remote idea where he is, and we are all growing uneasy about him," was the answer.

"Do you think he will come back?"

"Most assuredly I do," was the answer.

Then after a short pause Mr. Dorsett's kinsman remarked:

"Poor fellow, I am afraid he is out of his head."

"What do you mean?" his companion asked.

"Well, Sam hasn't been exactly right in his mind for some months, and I am afraid that he does not know what he is doing. Then, he may be sick somewhere and unable to communicate with his friends."

Yesterday that of the Piedmont Turf Exchange expired, and today they are closed.

The last of its history was played by a man who threw down $5, staked it, and lost. It was a fitting close.

Tomorrow the Day.

Tomorrow morning, at 10:30, the great sale of lots will take place at East End. These lots are among the choicest of the property of the Atlanta Suburban Land Company. Terms, the easiest ever heard of. Invest your money in suburban dirt now. You are bound to make money. Special dummy leaves at 10 o'clock—adv.

Not a word!

Mr. Dorsett's friends are still firm in their faith in him, and say that he will show up all right. One of them sent the following letter to THE CONSTITUTION yesterday:

DOUGLASSVILLE, Ga., April 28.—Editor Constitution:

In the article "Mr. Dorsett's Kinsman" in your issue of the 26th inst., there are a great many inaccuracies, some of which are so glaring that the friends of the parties ask their correction, as they cast unwarranted reflections upon the living and the dead.

Both Mr. Dorsett and Mrs. Massy stood as high in the social scale as any people in Georgia. Their names have never been mentioned in any way, and there has always been a sense of shame in the community that such a man as Mr. Dorsett, who is the best of his kind, should be compared with the rest, grows out of an under-current of gossip andaint contributions, and so on. ## GREATER THAN EVER.

WHAT IS WHAT THE EXPOSITION
OFFICERS EXPECT

That This Year's Exposition Will Be—The Agricultural Department Promises
Great Things—Amusements.

Commencing Monday, October 19th, closing Saturday, November 7th.

Reviewing the work of the management of the exposition up to date, one thing especially called for enthusiastic recognition—it is the enormous size which the agricultural department has assumed.

It is conceded by all who know, that the agricultural display will be the greatest ever seen in the south. Six counties have already engaged space in the agricultural hall for the display of farm and forest products and minerals.

The outlook in this department alone is splendid. The counties are determined to bring the biggest show to Atlanta's exposition ever brought here. Each county will have a train of itself of eight carloads; it will surpass anything ever seen.

They all put the management on notice that they enter for the first prize, $1,600.

The six counties already entered, even on such an early day, are Bartow, Fulton, Floyd, Whitfield and Troup, of Georgia; also Franklin, N. C.

Mr. T. J. King, superintendent of the experimental farm at Louisburg, N. C., who has made application for Franklin County, North Carolina, writes:

"I wish to enter Franklin county now and do not fear the competition. Knowing what I must contend with I shall make ample preparations and bring an exhibit which will reflect credit upon North Carolina. We will have an exposition here at Raleigh, N. C., October and November, and were it not for the fact that I am anxious to redeem my country's ability to get up a first-class display, I would exhibit only at Raleigh, as it is, I am coming to Atlanta."

Allocated for 3,000 square feet of space.

The exposition management has at its disposal about 100,000 square feet of space, all the buildings included. Of this about 45,000 square feet are already taken.

The company, desirous of seeing Atlanta and Georgia well represented, has been holding off foreign manufacturers, and has as yet admitted only a few of them.

The Piedmont exposition has grown to such proportions and has risen to such importance that manufacturers from all parts of the country will apply for space in time as soon as the catalogue is distributed, which will be in about one week. It is necessary for our manufacturers and merchants at home to apply for and make their selection of space at once.

The selection of "Sandy" Cohen as manager of amusements is a very popular move.

There is no man in the south more thoroughly qualified for that important position than Mr.
Cohen. He it was who served the exposition in the same capacity so thoroughly and excellently in the past, and who contributed so greatly to the success of the entertainment of the exposition's guests.

Mr. Cohen is still busy with the management of Mr. O'Neill and his great play, but he will be in Atlanta soon and will then give the amusement department his entire attention.

Look out for novelties then.

THE EQUITABLE BUILDING.

The Workmen Constructing the Steel Foundations to Support the Large Piers.

A building with a steel foundation.

The main piers of the Equitable building rest on hard metal.

The enormous weight of the handsome structure in the south, the rival of the magnificent office buildings in the east and west, will be on a foundation firmer than solid granite and more durable than any stone.

Yesterday the workmen were placing the steel beams of the four larger piers.

On a base of solid concrete, fifteen inches thick, the steel beams rested. They are placed about six inches apart and are connected by iron rods.

Between them the best concrete is tightly packed. The beams are so shaped that when the concrete hardens it will be impossible to move them.

Across these beams others are laid and connected in the same way. On this the solid core will rest, and on the stones a large frame will be built.

There are four of these steel foundations.
Where the greatest weight rests they are twenty-one and a half by eleven and a half feet, and are so solidly constructed that the weight will rest on the base only.

One of the foundations is being built of steel rails placed in the same manner as the beams.

"Here there is only a necessity for such a foundation under certain conditions, but it is admitted that they are much better than any other," said the supervisor of the architects.

"In the absence of arched foundations the character of the ground between is to thrust upward and permit the building to settle, this character of foundation is invaluable, as there can be no danger of such a result. In this building the actual weight on every foot of foundation will be two and one-half tons, and the cables will be so distributed for it is absolutely necessary for the weight to be so distributed. A settling of one portion more than another will cause the walls to crack and the floor to become uneven. With a steel basis the pressure can be much more accurately computed. With foundations so constructed the pressure will decrease much more rapidly than with stone, which gives the necessity of going deeper with the foundation to reach the solid earth."

THE TENT TONIGHT.

Services Will Be Held There If Everything
Is Ready.

Tonight the great tent services will begin.

That is, providing everything can be gotten in readiness, as is expected.

Annual Meeting of that Sterling Institution Yesterday.

The Lowry Banking Company held an annual meeting at noon yesterday.

There were stockholders present representing 2,250 shares.

The affairs of the year past were presented in the reports and a very flourishing condition shown. A surplus of $70,000, and $20,000 net profits, in addition to $62,000 having been paid out in dividends since its organization May 1, 1888, were decidedly encouraging. The capital is now $350,000.

An election for officers for the ensuing year
resulted in the following being chosen:

President, Robert J. Lowry.

Vice president, Thomas D. Meador.

Cashier, Joseph T. Orme.

Directors, Messrs. J. H. Porter, R. C.
Clarke, Thomas D. Meador, J. H. Lowry
and Joel Hurt.

Make Mine!

There is no time to be lost when the kidneys and bladder neglect their duty. Renal disease advances with giant strides. Bright's disease and diabetes are dread foes to human life. Subdue them in their infancy with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the purest diuretic in existence. It conquers likewise malaria, constipation, dyspepsia and biliousness.

It's Ice Cream Now.

Mr. John Venable, corner Whitehall and Hunter streets, is prepared to serve the very best ice cream on the shortest notice at a reasonable cost.

THE GRAND CHAPTER.

SIXTY-NINTH ANNUAL CONVENTION OF ROYAL ARCH MASON.

A Number of the Leading Officers of the Chapter Are Now in the City.

The sixty-ninth annual convention of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons convenes in this city today.

The annual meetings of the chapter alternate between Macon and Atlanta, and this year the convention occurs in this city.

There are seventy-five chapters in the state,
and each chapter has a right to send one delegate.

The convention is one of great importance in Masonic orders, and last evening the committee on finance and returns, consisting of Messrs. Charles Wessolowski, Orlando McLendon, D. W. Goodman, M. A. B. Tatums and J. H. Williams, was in session to arrange the reports for the meeting.

The Atlanta boys are making big preparations to go, and Atlanta will doubtless be represented as she ought.

Commissioner Slaughter has been applied to
for special rates, and if these are obtained, which will doubtless be the case, a delegation of something like 200 or 300 members of the Atlanta association, and their friends, will go down to help take Augusta by storm.

Atlanta will be joined here by delegations from Rome and Chattanooga. The Chattanooga branch has just been organized this year, and will send a splendid delegation to the first convention at which it is represented.

Rome too will send a delegation strong in men and in numbers. The special train which will bear all these delegates to Augusta will be appropriately decorated, and its arrival in Augusta will doubtless be one of the big features of the week.

Every indication points to a splendid programme and the best sort of a time in Augusta.

Addresses of welcome will be made by Colonel John S. Davidson, Hon. J. C. Black and Congressman Tom Watson, and other prominent men. Then the boys will be taken in charge by the Augusta branch, and will be given a royal entertainment. A genuine Augusta barbecue is one of the attractions. Everything that can possibly be done to make the boys have a good time can be expected.

The consent committee of the Atlanta branch reports that its requests have been met as a rule with prompt affirmative answers.

This is as it should be. The merchants of Atlanta should realize that their city is well represented and should readily give their consent for such of their men as desire to go. Nobody is more deeply interested in the success of this Southern Travellers' Association and what it aims to accomplish than the merchants. In fact, everything tends to the benefit of the merchant—more so than to the men themselves.
It is, therefore, to be hoped that every merchant in the city will grant to its men permission to go, and help whoso things up for the association and for Atlanta.

Atlanta should be well represented. She has always been in the past, and she should stand right at the front of this Southern Travellers' Association movement.

The consent committee has secured the signatures of the following firms: Atlanta Paper Company, Shropshire & Dodd, J. J. & J. E.
Maddox, Percy W. Rose & Co., Wellhouse &
Son, Oglesby & Meadow Grocery Company,

All the lots are choice, level and beautiful, the very place for lots for either a family home, or for business, springs, and having unusual facilities for rapid transit, an electric line being now in operation on the Boulevard, another to take the place of the horse line on Peachtree st., and another to Ponce de Leon springs.
